

Dear FCC Commissioner,
Why do you continue to disregard your obligation to protect our families from the constant barrage of indecency on television? Like many families, we are tired of the constant sex, violence, and profanity coming into our homes through the public airwaves. On February 25, ABC affiliate stations aired NYPD BLUE. In the program, a young boy was exposed to full adult female nudity. It is shameful that this kind of broadcast is going unchallenged by the FCC. I implore you to vigorously enforce broadcast indecency laws to insure this type of incident does not occur again.
Sincerely,
JOSE BALLI
